Small Arms

Mitrailleuse (Machine Gun) Hotchkiss, Modele 1914

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/File:U.S._Hotchkiss_Machine_Gun.jpg

When the United States declared war on Imperial Germany in April 1917, it had only 1,100 machine guns on charge and most of those were obsolescent. The United States Expeditionary force bought and used 7,000 Hotchkiss Modele 1914s during the Great War.

Unlike most other machine guns of the time, the Hotchkiss used a metal strip rather than a magazine or belt.

Although heavy the Hotchkiss Model 1914 was very reliable,

A revealing insight to the weapons that were carried and used daily by the millions of troops who fought the First World War.

Small Arms is an off-the-shelf multimedia package designed especially for museums and education. It can be used as-is or tailored in-house by individual organisations to add whatever extra information they want. The graphics and branding can be changed too so that any museum can tailor it to 'make it their own'.

The Benefits of Using InfoAktiv.

Because it runs on an InfoAktiv system, the package is amazingly easy to tailor, expand, adapt and update. It can be modified by anybody who can use a PC. This removes any reliance or expense associated with using outside contractors and makes it a perfect and very gratifying project for volunteers to work on.

InfoAktiv systems are a superb asset and a long-term investment because they can be used and re-used for any subject. Displays never need to become stagnant or out-of-date.

What's in the Package?

German, United States and British weaponry

The small arms covered include machine guns, anti-tank guns, pistols and revolvers, sub-machine guns and rifles.

Concise information

The basic package is designed for the 'casual' visitor who has limited time to spend on individual exhibits but wants a fairly quick understanding of the history, of World War 1. However, there is nothing to stop a museum adding any amount of more detailed information.

Simple to Use

Touching a picture takes the user into a section on the overview of the weapon selected. From the overview screen, the specifications button leads to more detailed information.

Easy to Change

If you, as the system's owner, want to change the layout, structure or content it is as easy as rearranging folders and files with Windows Explorer. Graphics, text and categories can be customized and expanded to add your own information or branding. Anybody with basic PC skills can do this.

The existing description pages are easy to modify using PowerPoint, and an infinite number of folders containing further information can be created using everyday software packages and formats such as PowerPoint, video, PDF and audio files.
